

Louis F. Graham, M.P.H.

Louis Graham is a current doctoral student at the University of North Carolina: Greensboro's Department of Public Health Education in Community Health with a Cognate in Sociology and is a recent graduate of Morehouse School of Medicine's Master of Public Health program, where his concentration was health policy and administration. Mr. Graham's research and academic interests center on psychosocial and sexual health promotion and protection among ethnic and sexual minority men; and he is a former Outreach Advisory Board Member of the AIDS Research Consortium of Atlanta and AID Atlanta's DeeperLove Project. He will be presenting his master's thesis entitled: Exploring the psychosocial health of black queer men at the Association of Black Psychologists Annual Conference in Oakland this year and has recently presented his work at Our Common Welfare's MSM Health and Wellness Summit and Georgia's Public Health Association Annual Meeting last year. Lastly, Mr. Graham is a recipient of the Dean's Student Advisory Council scholarship, is a Bill & Melinda Gates Scholar, and an active member of the American Public Health Association in the student caucus and mental health section.