

Glendale Manning

Glendale Manning has served as the Assistant Project Director for the Community Voices Program since 2005. In this capacity she is responsible for directing, planning and managing the division's annual operating budget to include development, and implementation of the division's financial operations, processes and procedures in accordance with grant awards and the institutional policies. Previously, she held the position of Center Administrator for the National Center for Primary Care where she was responsible for managing the day-to-day operations of the Center including fiscal oversight, human resources and facilities management. Glendale received her Bachelor of Science degree in business administration from Alabama State University. She also successfully completed the Georgia Institute of Technology Mid-Management Program. In her down time she enjoys traveling, reading mystery novels and practicing yoga.