

Marcus Dumas, BA

Marcus Dumas is a Graduate Research Assistant for Community Voices: Healthcare of the Underserved and a first year student in the Master of Public Health Program at Morehouse School of Medicine, where his track is Health Education/Health Promotion. Marcus completed his undergraduate work at Morehouse College in Sociology and before entering Morehouse School of Medicine researched childhood obesity throughout the state of Georgia with ORC Macro Incorporated of Beltsville, Maryland. Upon completion, Marcus plans to obtain his medical degree and specialize in Adolescent Medicine and Preventive Medicine. He has a special interest in childhood obesity, child healthcare, and unequal access to healthcare in underserved communities. He is committed to providing information to the public on how to improve their health and prevent risk of illness and plans to one day join the United States Public Health Commissioned Corps.